

HBO Central Europe Selects BuyDRM's KeyOS Platform for HBO GO® Multi-Screen DRM

KeyOS Device DRM® Service Includes Support for PC, Mac, iOS and Android Devices

Austin, Texas — September 8th, 2011 — BuyDRM™, a pioneer in DRM technologies for pay-media operators, announced today that the company has been selected by HBO Central Europe to support the HBO GO® service in central Europe. BuyDRM's KeyOS Device DRM® Service will provide the critical digital rights management functions necessary to ensure content security is maintained across the spectrum of user's playback devices.

As part of the deployment the KeyOS platform will provide content encryption and licensing functions to iPhones, iPads, Android phones, PC computers, Mac computers, connected televisions and connected Blu-ray players. KeyOS supports industry leading content access protection standards including Microsoft's PlayReady technology.

"We are pleased to find one platform that addresses all of our DRM needs across all of our potential user platforms" said János Szilárdi, New Media Director for HBO GO, HBO Central Europe. "BuyDRM's KeyOS platform is providing the multi-screen DRM technology that will ensure our content is protected with the highest degree of security available today."

"As content continues to flow to more and more devices in more and more locations, content security and rights management become critical issues" said Christopher Levy, CEO and Founder, BuyDRM. "KeyOS is uniquely positioned to address these critical issues building upon nearly 10 years of R&D in deploying commercial DRM technologies."
